Why is the City selling its Utilities?

The City of Dunnellon engaged Woodard & Curran to perform a Comprehensive Utility Analysis, completed in February 2017, after facing operational, regulatory and financial challenges with the City Utility System. Because of these challenges, and a pending State funded project to expand the wastewater system along Southwest 180th Avenue Road outside of the city limits, the City Council opted to suspend making any further major decisions with regards to the Utility until they could conduct a Comprehensive Utility Analysis. Among the alternatives recommended for the City was to divest its utility.

In March of 2017, the Florida Governmental Utility Authority (FGUA) accepted the City's invitation to explain its structure to the City Council and shortly thereafter, the City Council formally invited the FGUA to conduct an evaluation of the utility system and explore a potential purchase.

Since a majority of Dunnellon customers are outside of the city, in April 2017, the Marion County Board of County Commissioners adopted a Resolution supporting the FGUA's due diligence evaluation for the potential purchase of the Dunnellon Utility. The FGUA evaluations were later presented to City Council and Marion County and received unanimous support for negotiation of a Purchase and Sale Agreement.

As a result of an FGUA acquisition, rates are expected to be stabilized, debt will be more manageable and new regulatory requirements will be met through the implementation of the 5-year capital improvement program. The system will also benefit from a utility focused management team and organization.

Who is the FGUA?

The FGUA is a single-purpose local government created by Florida Statutes, focused on water and wastewater utility ownership, operation and management. The FGUA operates pursuant to Florida's open Government Sunshine Laws like all other local governments and "Member Governments" in whose community they work are represented on the FGUA governing board. The FGUA is known for ensuring utilities are brought to public standards by completing necessary improvements, maintaining full regulatory compliance, and offering a high level of customer service.

FGUA.COM

The FGUA currently serves approximately 117,000 customer connections in 83 systems within 13 counties.

When will the FGUA take over my utilities?

The proposed acquisition closing date is October 26, 2018.

Will there be a rate increase?

The FGUA has committed to holding the existing general customer rates constant for two years, and limit following years to Consumer Price Index adjustments, unless unforeseen circumstances or financing obligations require otherwise.

What changes will I see with my service?

You may notice new logos on trucks, facilities, your utility bills (some will say FGUA and some may indicate the FGUA's contractor, US Water). Under FGUA ownership, there will be more resources available to help with emergencies and you will hopefully notice more responsive, efficient service.

When do I start paying FGUA for my utilities? When do I stop paying the City of Dunnellon?

The City of Dunnellon will continue to provide customer service and billing functions through a transition period, which is ending on October 26th, 2018. Any bill for services that the customer has not paid by October 26th shall be made payable to the FGUA.

Please note that you will be given a new account number when you receive your first bill from the FGUA which may be required for some payment options listed.

When will I get my first bill from FGUA?

The FGUA will be conducting all customer service and billing functions after October 26th, 2018. Customers should expect to receive their first FGUA bill in approximately the same monthly timeframe that they received their bill from the City of Dunnellon.

Who should I contact if I have questions about my account prior to FGUA ownership?

Billing will remain the responsibility of The City until the closing date of October 26th and you can contact them for any existing concerns. Beginning on Monday, October 29th, all questions related to your account can be directed to the FGUA Lady Lake Customer Service Center at 352-633-9700 or 877-657-8889.

Will my account number change?

Yes, please note on your first FGUA bill that you have a new account number. Please make any necessary changes to your records and be advised that payment options with the FGUA will require this new account number.

Will my automatic debit payment continue?

Customers who signed up for the automatic debit payment option with Dunnellon will no longer have money debited from their account for any City of Dunnellon bills due after October 26th, 2018.

A new authorization must be given to the FGUA to debit any account for payment. Customers interested in the automatic debit option will have to sign up using the FGUA EZ Pay option. The form will be included in the first bill customers receive from the FGUA or can be obtained by going to the FGUA website at <https://www.fgua.com/customers/payment-options/ez-pay>.

Please note that automatic debits will not occur immediately after submitting an E-Z Pay form. Please allow 4-6 weeks for your FGUA E-Z Pay application to process.

Will my automatic payments continue if I set them up through my bank?

Automatic bank payments may continue for City of Dunnellon bills with a due date prior to October 26th, but customers are responsible to update the utility payment information to the FGUA for subsequent payments. The address for these payments is FGUA - PO Box 152823 Cape Coral, FL 33915.

Please contact the FGUA Lady Lake Customer Service Office at 352-633-9700 or Toll-Free 877-657-8889.

I'm a seasonal resident of Dunnellon and often turn my service off when I travel north. Will I still pay base fees or reconnect fees?

The FGUA is adopting the City's fees at this time so you would pay the same charges you did with the City. For assistance with these services, you can contact us through email, phone or mail here

Do I have to pay a new deposit to the FGUA?

No, if you have an existing deposit on file with the City of Dunnellon it will be transferred to the FGUA and your account during transition.

Will the garbage fee still be on my bill and who do I contact about my garbage service?

Yes, the garbage fee will still be included on your FGUA monthly statement as it was with the City of Dunnellon. However, if you have any questions regarding your garbage service, you would still contact the City of Dunnellon at 352-465-8500 since
